

John Rose Arrives

John Rose became the first permanent settler in the part of Yuba County that in 1851 would become Nevada County. He was born in Scotland in 1817, landed in San Francisco in 1839 to build ships with William Reynolds and J.D. Davis, and was building a grist mill for Salvador Vallejo when gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill in 1848. In July 1848, he went up the Yuba River with Reynolds to a gravel bar (later named Rose's Bar), mined for gold on shares, and opened a store to supply miners with fresh beef and other farm products from the pair's ranch near Marysville. In early 1849 Rose and Reynolds built an adobe house and post for trade with the Indians in Pleasant Valley half way between Anthony House (site now covered by Lake Wildwood) and Bridgeport. The trading post site is near the intersection of the old road to Point Defiance (now Piper Lane and Del Mar Way) and the trail down Rapp's Ravine and Kentucky Creek (later the Virginia Turnpike and now Pleasant Valley Road).

Soon they added a cattle corral (Rose's Corral) near the trading post and the pair began to slaughter and supply beef to the local miners. The trading post and corral were built on land later owned by Nevada A. Hartung, a "covered wagon baby" born at Webber Lake, CA, on his family's trip west in 1853. Another cattle corral, Rose's Second Corral, was built about the same time in Penn Valley at the site of an Indian Rancheria. In August 1850, Rose & Reynolds & Co. (John Rose, William Reynolds, and George Kinlock) dissolved the Company. Rose continued mining on the Yuba River until he gave up mining and went back to carpentering in the Spenceville area. He died in 1899 and is buried in Smartsville.
