

The Kneebones and the Bridgeport Pleasure Resort

Joseph Kneebone, Sr. came to Sacramento from England in 1868, purchased a ranch at Spenceville and started a teaming business. Joseph's wife, Mary, arrived at Spenceville in 1871 with six of their seven children. The seventh child, Andrew Reed Kneebone, remained in England to complete his education. Andrew, born in Cornwall, England, arrived at Spenceville in 1876. Andrew followed his father and became a well known teamster, handling 12 to 20 animals using a "jerk line" to one lead animal. Andrew met Victoria Cole while driving wagons through Bridgeport on his route to the mines, and they were married at Bridgeport March 17, 1886. The couple had five sons including Alfred Alexander Kneebone born in 1892.

1919-1956 Kneebone House

Alfred married Lucy Jane Moynier in 1918 and was living in the 1862 Cole house when it burned in 1919. A new home was built on the same foundation to use the existing cellar. In the 1920s Alfred was farming on the Cole Ranch at Bridgeport, then owned by Charles Cole's daughter (Alfred's mother), Victoria Cole Kneebone. The buildings on the ranch included the newly built 1919 ranch house, bridge, red barn, granary, and dairy barn. In 1927 Alfred began to develop the Bridgeport Pleasure Resort. This included swimming, dancing, dining, and picnic areas about ¼ mile upstream from the ranch and a gas station, store, and watering trough (built in 1920) at the ranch.

Gas Station Opening Day—May 12, 1927

The gas station and store opened May 12, 1927 and operated until about 1944. The store stocked food, beverages, and supplies for visitors and for families living in the rental cabins. Soft drinks, beer, fruit, vegetables, meat, ice cream, candy, and household supplies were stocked. In addition to the store, the gas station building included a cold storage room, a garage, and a retort to refine gold. Initially the cold storage room kept the fruit, vegetables, meat and milk cold with ice. Alfred's daughter Alfrieda recalls riding in the back of the ranch's 1 ½ ton Chevrolet pickup truck to Marysville to purchase the food and the ice. Later, a Kohler generator, installed in the generator/separator building (adjacent to the Visitor Center), produced electricity to operate a refrigeration system in the cold room.

& Jack Knowlton (Alfred's future husband)

The gas station garage had double doors for storage and maintenance jobs. During the depressed 1930s a second gold rush occurred along the South Yuba River, and snipers checked cracks in rocks and panned for gold. Alfred bought gold ore from the miners at $18.20 per ounce, processed the ore in the retort behind the gas station, and sold it for $20.70 per ounce in Grass Valley. Daughter Alfrieda recalled that 1938 to 1943 were the best years for the store.

Alfred raised goats and pigs, raised crops, and planted fruit trees all in the fields between today's Visitor Center and the Cemetery. Water for animals and crop irrigation was brought in a ditch that began at Arrastre Bend on Kentucky Creek and was carried over the Turnpike on an elevated flume. Later the flume was replaced by a pipe buried under the Turnpike road. The pipe is located 165 feet west of the gas station, and disturbed rock walls are evident at that location.

The swimming resort opened June 12, 1927 with a beef barbeque and a dance on opening day. The area upstream (now called Kneebone Beach) featured a swimming hole, two diving boards, beach, changing rooms, showers, dining hall, a cement block cave in the hillside to store cold drinks, a dance pavilion, picnic tables, electric lights, and five rental cabins all about ¼ mile upriver from the ranch. Occasionally Alfred would prepare “camp stew” in two large pots for the crowd. Daughter Alfrieda recalled that they charged $.25 per bowl. Runoff from winter storms in 1928 damaged the dance pavilion and other structures, but repairs were made and the resort opened June 3 that year. Upriver hydraulic mining in 1929 loaded the South Yuba River with sediment, fouled the Kneebone swimming hole, and delayed opening the Resort until July 4, 1930. Alfred filed suit against the Bonanza Gold Mining Corp. and Omega Hill Mining Corp. for loss of 1930 income. PG&E power came to the area in 1940. Alfred died in a 1945 car accident while returning from French Corral. His widow, Lucy, owned the ranch until 1955.
